Preface.

The history herewith given to the family is the result of more than seven years' continuous labor, and has been carried on in the face of obstacles which have seemed at times nearly insurmountable.

A work of this character is necessarily more or less incomplete, but much valuable data regarding our family is herewith presented and may aid some subsequent historian in the preparation of a more complete work.

An opinion seems to have prevailed among some of the family that the work was intended as a source of personal profit to the author; this idea is wholly erroneous, it having been a constant expense since its commencement. The book has been from first to last a "labor of love" only.

The peculiar difficulties in the preparation of an American genealogy have been fully experienced in this work. The families are scattered from ocean to ocean, from lakes to gulf. Several are residents of foreign countries. They are often without records and still more often without sufficient interest in the work to give what aid they might. The "Family Bible" has too often been carried off by daughters and then lost to the family name.

The family is a small one and there is but one family bearing the name. The English branch appears to be wholly extinct. No member of the family has even been historical great, but the individual members of it have ever been characterized by industry, sobriety and scrupulous honesty. So far as the author's observation goes our name has never appeared in literature, with a single exception. In "The Deserter," by Harold Frederick, the hero is a boy, Job Parshall by name, though it may be stated that Job was not "the deserter."

Since the work was placed in the hands of the publishers, vexatious delays have occurred, which, however, were seemingly unavoidable. After the work had been fairly advanced, a serious illness of the author, which necessitated a still more serious operation, further delayed the work, but all obstacles have been successfully surmounted and the work is before you.

To the venerable Asa Parshall, of Chenung, N. Y., the family owes a debt of gratitude which it can never repay. Whatever credit may fall to the author for his work no less praise is due to "Uncle" Asa for his unflagging interest and finally to his generosity which has furnished a large part of the means necessary to the publication of the work. But for him my work would have gone for naught.

I have been greatly assisted in my work by a little volume, entitled The Parshall and VanEtten Families, by Mrs. Annie Parshall Davis, which treats of the descendants of Samuel⁵. This little work was prepared by Mrs. Davis while suffering from an illness, which ultimately proved fatal, and while it necessarily contained many errors it has proved of immense assistance to the author in tracing this branch of the family.

The author also begs to acknowledge his indebtedness to Horace Field Parshall, of London, Eng., for financial assistance rendered to the work.

A number of blank pages of suitable paper have been bound in the work for a family record, and it is earnestly desired that each family strive to keep this record accurately for the benefit of some future historian of our race.

Trusting that my efforts as the historian of our family may be rewarded by your approbation, and that you may prove kindly critics, I beg to subscribe myself,

SYRACUSE, 16 May, 1903.

Your affectionate cousin,

JAMES CLARK PARSHALL.

The Pershalls of England.

The name of "Pers hale" appears upon the Roll of Battel Abbey as one of the leaders of that conquering host which accompanied William of Normandy to England and took part in the Battle of Hastings, 14 Oct. 1066. To perpetuate the glorious event the Conqueror caused to be erected a magnificent abbey which he munificently endowed and in it was hung a roll containing the names of those nobles and leaders who had fought in the battle. The roll bore this inscription:*

"Dicitur a bello, bellum loens hic, quia bello
Angligenae victi, sunt hic in morte relictī:
Martyris in Christi festo cecidere Calixti;
Sexagenus erat sextus millessimus annus
Cum pereunt Angli, stella monstrante cometa."

And is followed by the names of the individuals, among whom is that of the Pershale referred to. This roll has long since perished, but a number of more or less authentic copies exist and most of these bear the name of Pershale. Burke, the great authority on heraldry, gives the name in his list, and Duschene in a smaller list, so that the participation of our ancestor in the battle is at least as well authenticated as that of any other claimants to descent from the followers of the conqueror. The Norman origin of the family is probably beyond question. It has always been so believed in America and the English family from which the American has sprung, claimed descent paternally from the Norman Counts of Corbeil. This appears to have been a tradition in the family handed down from generation to generation, but the evidence of its truth—if truth it be—has long since succumbed to the corroding hand of Time. We may, therefore, without doing great violence to the probabilities, conjecture a half-savage ancestor among the followers of the Norwegian Rollo, in his invasion and conquest of Normandy; others might be found among the fierce warriors who in the ninth and tenth centuries of our era devastated Europe with fire and sword. It is not impossible that another may have been of the crew of that hardy adventurer, who, defying wind and waves, turned his carved prow toward the setting sun and discovered America, five hundred years before Columbus had seen the light of day. Fierce as the wolves themselves and scarcely less wild, they knew neither pity nor remorse; fearlessly they faced death and met it with a fortitude begotten of their faith in their pagan gods, and of the eternal feasts and combats of Valhalla.

No records of the family apparently exist, covering the interval from the Conquest to the reign of King Edward III., when the family is found seated in Staffordshire, where it had doubtless been for many generations. The family is traced to Sir Richard de Pershall and I introduce in this place the lineage as given by Burke:*

SIR RICHARD DE PERSHALL, son of Sir Richard Pershall, by Alice Swinnerton, his wife. He was a Knight and a person of great power in Staffordshire, having been high sheriff, an office in those days of great authority, 7 Edward III (1333) and from the 11th to the 15th (1337-1341) of the same King. He m. Margaret da. and heiress of Ilugh, Lord of Knighton, and thus added that manor to his possessions. He was succeeded by his son

SIR ADAM DE PERSHALL, who was sheriff 15 Edward III (1341), and who made a similar accession to his estate by marriage with two heiresses, the daus. of John Weston, Lord of Weston Lizard, in the County of Salop and John de Coverswall, of Bishop's Offley. By the former he had a son and heir

* Burke's Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies 406; Visitation of Kent, 1619-1621, p. 179.

SIR ADAM DE PERSHALL, of Weston Lizard, whose grandson and heir another

SIR ADAM PERSHALL, left two daus. his co-heiresses, viz.:

MARGARET PERSHALL, who married Sir Richard Mytton and conveyed to him the estate of Weston Lizard.

JOHANNA PERSHALL, m. to W. de Birmingham.

By the latter he had a son

SIR RICHARD PERSHALL, who acquired a considerable fortune with his wife, Johanna, dau. and heiress of Reginald Chetwynde, of Chetwynde, and left a son and heir

SIR THOMAS PERSHALL, Knight, living 4 Richard II (1376), who, by his first wife, Philippa, had two sons

RICHARD, who m. temp. Henry IV (1399-1413), two sisters, the daus.

NICHOLAS, of Hugh Malpas, of Checkley, and thus brought great estates into the family. Richard, the elder son, left two daus. m. temp.

Henry VII (1485-1509), the elder Isabella, to Sir Thomas Grosvenor; and the younger, Jocosa, to W. Pigott, of Cheshire. Of Nicholas more presently.

Sir Thomas, by his second wife, Alice, dau. of Roger Knightley, of Knightley, in Staffordshire, left a son

HUMPHREY, of Over Tayne, father of

Richard, who m. Alice, dau. of Robert Knightley, Esq., of Goswell, and had a son

Humphrey, father of

HUGH PERSHALL, who by his wife Isabella, dau. and heiress of John Stanley, of Pipe, left three daughters, his co-heiresses, viz.:

CATHERINE, m. to Sir John Blount, Knt., of Kinlett, in Salop.

ISABELLA, m. to Richard Fane, of Tunbridge, in Kent.

JOCOSA, m. Humphrey Wolryeh, of Dudmaston, in Salop.

The second son of the first wife

NICHOLAS PERSHALL, by Helen, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Hugh Malpas, left a son and heir

HUGH PERSHALL, Esq., the first of the family, who resided at Horseley, in the County of Stafford. He was sheriff 4 Henry VII (1489)^a and by Julia, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Corbet, of Moreton Corbet, had a son and heir.

^a Some years ago I read an extremely interesting anecdote of this same Sir Hugh Pershall, which, as I am unable to find it again to quote the book, I relate, with tolerable accuracy, from memory:

At the time of the invasion of the Duke of Richmond, so soon to become King Henry VII., Sir Hugh was in command of a town or city for the reigning King, Richard III., to whom our ancestor was loyal. Being summoned by the Duke to surrender, Sir Hugh gallantly swore that the Duke would have to pass over his body before he won an entrance to the town.

Perceiving, however, in a short time, that the cause of Richard was desperate, and the futility of resistance, he was fain to surrender and make

The eldest son and continuator of the family

JOHN PERSHALL, Esq., of Checkley, m. Helena, dau. of John Harcourt, Esq., of Ranton, in the County of Stafford, and left a son and heir

RICHARD PERSHALL, Esq., who m. Isabella, dau. and heiress of Thomas Rolleston, Esq., of Derbyshire, and had seven sons and two daus. The eldest son

THOMAS PERSHALL, Esq., succeeded to the family estates, resided at Horseley. He m. Joanna, dau. of Sir Edmund Fettiplace, of Berkshire, and was succeeded by his son

JOHN PERSHALL, Esq., of Horseley, in Staffordshire, who was among the first Baronets created by King James I. 25 Nov., 1612, and in four years afterwards was sheriff of the county. He m. Anne, dau. of Ralph Sheldon, Esq., of Beely, in the County of Worcester, and had issue

THOMAS, his heir, born in 1596, who m. Bridget, dau. of Sir William Stafford Knt., of Blatherwick, and dying in the lifetime of his father left

JOHN, successor to his grandfather.

Bridget, m. to George, son of William Massey, Esq.

Anne, m. to Christopher Hawley, Esq.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir Robert Bosvile, of Bianno.

his peace with Richmond. His oath, however, was not to be lightly violated, so he was obliged to resort to a singular expedient to avoid perjuring himself. Notifying Richmond that he was ready to surrender, and of the difficulties of the case, he opened the gate of the town, lay down on the ground and the Duke stepping carefully over him entered it with his followers. Whether he took part in the battle of Bosworth Field or not, I am unable to say, but that he subsequently rose in favor with the King is certain, for a few years later we find him Sheriff of Staffordshire, an office in those days of very great honor and authority.

Jane, m. to Richard Colvert, Esq., of Cockerem.

Katherine, m. to James Peel, Esq., of Wishall.

Margaret, m. to Richard Brent, Esq.

Frances, m. to John Stanford, Esq., of Sayford.

Sir John died 13 Jany., 1646, and was succeeded by his grandson

Sir JOHN, who m. in 1660, Frances, dau. of Col. Thomas Legh, of Adlington, in Cheshire, and dying in 1701, was succeeded by his son

SIR THOMAS PERSHALL, m. Miss Medcalf and had a son

John, who m. Charlotte, dau. of Thomas, Lord Colepeper, and died before his father in 1706, leaving two daus., his co-heiresses, viz.:

Frances, m. to Thomas Ireland, Esq., of the County of Salop, and had a son.

Arabella, baptized in 1702, m. to John, third Earl Breadalbane.

Sir Thomas died in Feby., 1712, and since that time the Baronetcy has lain dormant.

In this place it seems to me pertinent to introduce an account of the efforts of a certain Rev. John Pearsall to show a connection existing between that family and the more aristocratic Pershalls.*

"In the year 1612, John Pershall, of Horseley, County Stafford, the descendant and representative of an ancient family, which is said to be paternally descended from the Norman Counts of Corbeil, was created a Baronet by James I. He m. Anne, dau. of Ralph Sheldon, of Beoly, in Worcestershire, and dying in 1646, was succeeded by his grandson, John Pershall, the only son of his son Thomas, who had died v. p. Sir John died in 1701, and was succeeded by his son Sir Thomas, on whose death without surviving male issue in 1712, the dignity is presumed to have become extinct.

"But about the year 1771, the Rev. John Pearsall, of Oxford, (formerly a schoolmaster at Highgate and afterwards at Guilford) the descendant of a respectable yeoman family, seated for many generations at Hawsen and Witley, in the parish of Halesowen, changed the name which he and his ancestors had hitherto used, and adopted the style and designation of Sir John Pershall, Bart., alleging that the title had on the death of the above-named Sir Thomas Pershall, in 1712, passed to his (the Reverend gentleman's) grandfather, Thomas, the grandson of Humphrey Pearsall, who, he asserted, was the second son of the first Baronet of Horseley.

"To support these pretensions the surname of the grandfather, which had been originally engraved Pearsall, was altered on his tombstone at Halesowen to Pershall; and a tablet recording the births, marriages and deaths of sundry Pershalls of Hawsen, (including Humphrey 'fil Dni Joh'is de Horseley Hall in agro Staff. B'ti, who died in 1650, act 51) was placed in Halesowen church.

"The Reverend Baronet had issue three surviving sons: 'Sir' John, who succeeded him, and died at his apartments in Chelsea Hospital, 21 Nov., 1820, in his 62d year. Sparry Pershall, born in 1760, who m. Anna Maria, dau. of Thomas Homer (by Patience, dau. of Richard Keelinge) and d. s. p. 24 Dec., 1803; and Samuel, born 1761. The daughters were Anna Maria, born 1764, died 1765; and Elizabeth Maria, who was married to Sir Busie Harwood, Knt., M. D., and died in 1836, act. 73.

* VII. Herald and Gen. 279 etc.

"From Humphrey, third son of Humphrey, third, of Hawne (the alleged second son of the Horseley Baronet) Robert Lucas de Pearsall of Willsbridge, Co. Gloucester, is descended, and in Burke's Landed Gentry and Royal Descents the pedigree is traced from the Pershalls of Horseley.

"It is stated in these works that Humphrey Pershall of Horseley succeeded to the estate of the Halne or Hawn in the parish of Halesowen on the death (without issue in 1616) of his cousin John Pearsall;" but the exact connection of John of Hawne with the Humphrey of Horseley is not shown, and I am inclined to think that the so-called second son of Sir John was really descended from Humphrey Peyrsall, husbandman, who in 1562, obtained a lease of lands in Hawne for 1,000 years from Messrs. Blount and Tuckey, to whom the estate had been granted by John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland.

"Lawrence Pearsall, yeoman, dealt with the Witley estate in 1580, and Humphrey Pearsall of Hawne, yeoman, in 1616. The next of the family that I meet with is John Pearsall of Witley Barn, yeoman. His will is dated 1659; in it he mentions his cousin John Pearsall of Hawne, his wife Joan, his brother-in-law Thomas Carpenter, his son John and his three daughters Joan, Joice and Elizabeth.

"In 1671, the son of John was 'of Witley Barn, yeoman' the daughter Joan was then unmarried; Joice was the wife of Thomas Pennell, of Elmley Lovett, Co. Worcester, 'agricola'; Elizabeth, of Zachariah Birch, of Harbourne, Co. Stafford tailor.

"The name of Pershall no longer occurs in the roll of Baronets, but as the title is pronounced by Burke to be dormant, it is not improbable that it may at no distant day re-appear in the Baronetage.

"I do not mean to positively assert that the alleged descent of the Hawne family from the Pershalls of Horseley cannot be satisfactorily established, but I certainly do consider it sufficiently doubtful to merit a place in your list of doubtful pedigrees and Baronetcies.

"Certainly the social position of the Halesowen family was very different to that enjoyed by the Pershalls of Horseley, who matched with Sheldons, Staffords, Knightleys, Fleetwoods, &c., but what makes the matter still more suspicious is the tampering with tombstones, an act which cannot be too highly reprehended. I should be very glad, however, if this letter should elicit some information which would tend to establish what I cannot but consider a very doubtful claim."

Late in the reign of Elizabeth, and in the following reign of James I., an Edmond Pershall of London, a member of the Grocers' guild or corporation, acquired prominence, and I introduce in this place a brief sketch of him, which is compiled, I believe, from records of the Grocers' Company:

Pashall--Pearshall--Piershall--Pershall--Peshall, etc., Edmond, grocer, 2. Sub.--; pd. £25. Admitted to Livery, May 24, 1596; paid £15 as his share of the levy of 1598; warden, 1600, when he had to pay the default of his brother warden, Timothy Bathurst, to the amount of £368; was senior warden in 1616. Westminster, March 29, 1615. Grant to Edmond Peshall and Edw. White of London, of the late imposition of 2s. per lb on tobacco imported for ten years paying to the King £3,500 the first year and £7,000 per ann. afterwards, with sole power to import tobacco and to name persons for selling the same, with a proviso of determination at six months' notice, if found prejudicial to the State.*

This Edmond Pershall was one of the sons in all probability of Richard who m. Isabella, da. of Thomas Rolleston and had seven sons and two daughters, mention of whom is made on a preceeding page. I find the following description of Edmond, son of Richard, which seems to render it probable that he was identical with the Edmond of London.

Edmundus Pershall iam sup'tes apud Bromley in co Cantij. m. Maria filia Lauceloti Bathurst nuper aldermanus Lond. Issue: Robertus Pershall de Lincolne Inne fil p'mogenitus aet 20 An et Amplius; Edmundus fil. 2 aet 18 An et Amplius; Thomas fil. 3 aet 15 An; Maria aet 8 Annos.†

The inference from this is clear as to why he paid "the default of his brother warden, Timothy Bathurst, to the amount of £368."

I think it extremely probable that James the Emigrant was a grandson of this Edmond, or of one of his brothers.

FAMILY I

JAMES¹ [1], was born, beyond a doubt, in England, probably about the middle of the seventeenth century. There are no records extant showing the exact date, but the fact that he died about twenty-three years after his marriage indicates that he had not, in all probability, reached a very advanced age. He d. at Southold, Suffolk County, N. Y., 15 Sept., 1701,* m. probably at Easthampton, Suffolk County, about 1678, Elizabeth, only dau. of David and Mary (Lerringman) Gardiner, of Easthampton.†

The first record of him that we have is a deed, under date of Dec. 12, 1679, by which it appears that he was at that time a resident of the Isle of Wight, or Gardiner's Island, as it is now known, and which was included within the limits of the township of Easthampton. As this deed is the earliest known record in which his name is mentioned I reproduce it here in full:

It was prior, in all probability, to the date of this deed that he had married his wife. It is of record that his eldest son, Israel, was born in Mch. 1680, and there is every probability that his dau., Mary, was older than her brother. Her name is mentioned first in contemporary records which would be absolutely inexplicable on any other hypothesis. This would indicate a date hardly later than 1678 for his marriage. The parents of Elizabeth Gardiner were married, 4 June, 1657.[†] hence she could not have been more than 20 years of age at the time of her marriage, and may have been two or three years younger. Her parents had three sons beside the daughter Elizabeth, but as the dates of their birth are not of record, we have no means of knowing whether she was the eldest child. As to the age of James, we can only conjecture: It is not probable that he was more than 40 at the time of his marriage and he was probably considerably younger. The males of the early generations of the family in America seem to have died comparatively young, and it is probable that at the time of James' death, he had not reached his sixtieth year. His eldest son died at 58; his second son at 43; his third son probably in childhood, and the only one of his grandsons of whom we can speak with certainty, died at about 50 years of age. I believe the birth of James may safely be placed between 1640 and 1650.

* I. S'ield Town Rec. 379 &c.

† II. Sav. Gen. Dict. 225.

That he was of English ancestry and a descendant of the family mentioned in the preceding chapter is morally certain. The family was a small one and the similarity of name leaves no room for doubt on the subject. There is a tradition in one branch of the family (the descendants of Jonathan³) that the ancestor was a Huguenot refugee, but this is untenable. The very fact that the tradition is confined absolutely to this one branch is sufficient to disprove it. The Huguenot strain in this branch, if any, doubtless came through marriage with the daughter of some of the Huguenot refugees who had settled in Orange County, N. Y., where this branch of the family located at an early period.

Elizabeth Gardiner, wife of James, was the only daughter of David Gardiner, Esq., second proprietor of Gardiner's Island, and granddaughter of Capt. Lion Gardiner, the founder of the family which bears his name and the first proprietor of the estate. David, her father, was educated in London, where, 4 June, 1657, he married Mary Lerringman, a widow, of St. Margarets, Westminster.* He died very suddenly at Hartford, Conn., whither he had gone, probably on public business, 10 July, 1689.† His grave was discovered in 1836, in the ancient burying ground back of the Congregational Church at Hartford, and bears this inscription:

* H. Sav. Gen. Dict. 225.

† Grave at Hartford, Ct.; Conn. Hist. Col. 59.

"HERE LYETH THE BODY OF MR. DAVID GARDINER
OF GARDINER'S ISLAND DECEASED JULY 10, 1689
IN THE FIFTY-FOURTH YEAR OF HIS AGE.
WELL, SICK, DEAD IN ONE HOURS SPACE.
"Engrave the remembrance of Death on thy heart
When as thou dost see how swiftly hours depart"

Her grandfather, Lyon, or Lion, as he wrote it, born in 1599,[†] of English parentage, was an engineer in the service of the Prince of Orange in the Netherlands. On 11 Aug., 1635, with his wife, and a single female servant, Elizabeth Colet, and eleven other male passengers, he embarked at London in a small vessel, the Bachelor, of only 25 tons burthen, and reached Boston, 28 Nov., in the same year.[‡] In possession of the Gardiner family, on Gardiner's Island, is an old Bible, on a blank page of which is written, in the handwriting of Lion Gardiner, the following:

"In the year of our Lord, 1635, the 10th of July, came I, Lion Gardiner and Mary my wife from Worden, a town in Holland, where my wife was born, being the daughter of one Dirieke Willemsen, deceased; her mother's name was Hachir, and her Aunt, sister of her mother, was the wife of Wouter Leanderdson, old burger Muster, dwelling in the hostrade, over against the Bruner in the Unicorn's head; her brother's name was Ponce Garretson, also old burger Muster. We came from Worden to London, and from there to New England, and dwelt at Saybrook fort four years—it is at the mouth of Connecticut river—of which I was commander, and there was born to me a son, named David, 1636, the 29th of April, the first born in that place, and in 1638 a daughter was born, named Mary, 30th of August, and then I went to an Island of my own, which I had bought and purchased of the Indians, called by them Monckonack, by us, Isle of Wight, and there was born another daughter, named Elizabeth, the 14th September, 1641, she being the first child of English parents that was born there."*

He commanded the fort at Saybrook during the Pequot War and was a man of great energy and force of character. He died late in 1663. The following is a description of his tomb at Easthampton:

* Conn. Hist. Col. 59, II. Say Gen. Dict. 225.

† Grave at Easthampton.

‡ II. Say. Gen. Dict. 226.

"On a sunny knoll in the old burial ground of Easthampton, (L. I.) amid blue-eyed grass and cinquefoil, rises the granite tomb of the first English planter within the limits of the present State of New York. On the slab beneath the roof whose pediments bear the escutcheon of his family, lies in helmet, cuirass, and greaves, the effigy of Lion Gardiner. On the plinth is inscribed, on the four sides, a brief summary of his life:

"An officer of ye English army and an Enginery of ye Master of Workes Fortification of ye Leaguers of ye Prince of Orange in ye Low Countries. In 1635 he came to New England.

"In service of a Company of Lords and Gentlemen He build'd and command'd Say Brook Forte

"After completed his terme of service he moved in 1639 to his Island of which he was sole owner. Born 1599, he died in this towne in 1663."*

It appears to have been several years after the purchase of the land at Aquebogue, before James finally removed to Southold. The rate lists of 1683 do not contain his name, but in the census of Southold taken in 1686,[†] it appears that he was then a resident of that place; his family consisting of "six white males, two white females, three male slaves, and two female slaves." The names of the different members are not given. The census of 1698,[‡] however, gives the names of James and his family as follows:

James Pershall
Margaret Pershall
Mary Pershall
Israel Pershall
David Pershall
Benjamin Pershall
Margarett Pershall Junjs.

Whether the name of Margaret is an error for Elizabeth or was the name of a second wife, evidence fails to disclose. I strongly incline to the former hypothesis. We have no record of the death of Elizabeth, nor of a second marriage of James. Elizabeth was living June 26th, 1690, as the following receipt to the executors of her father's estate will show:

His will, made in 1692, a little more than two years after the receipt set forth on the preceding page, mentions his wife, but without naming her. I insert that extremely interesting document in this place:

The following minute of the proceedings on the probate of the foregoing instrument is also of record:

"By the tenor of these presents know ye yt on ye 28 day of Oct. 1701 at ye manor of St. Georges in ye County of Suffolk before ye Honoble Coll William Smith Judge of the Prerogative Court in ye sd County was proved & approved ye last will & testamt of James Parshall late of S'hold in ye sd County deceased on ye 15 day of Sept. 1701 who by his sd will did nominate and appoint his brothers in law John & David Gardiner & Thomas Mapes his executors—and ye administration of the goods & chattels of ye sd deceased was granted to ye sd David Gardiner & Thomas Mapes."^{*}

A careful perusal of this will makes it appear probable that all the children of James, mentioned in the Census of 1698, were born prior to the date thereof. Benjamin probably died in childhood as no records of him are extant. The bare mention of his name in the Census of 1698 is all that is known of him. The Census of 1698, also contains the last record of his eldest daughter Mary, "Margaret Junjr," married Caleb Howell in 1710,[†] after which she also disappears from the records.

James was "a gentleman," in the sense in which the word was used in Colonial times, and a man of considerable means, which he probably brought with him from England. The following, relative to James, appears in a work relating to Long Island:

* Early L. I. Wills of Suffolk Co. 226.

† Salmen Rec.

"Israel and David Parshall were sons of James Parshall, who married Elizabeth, the only daughter of David Gardiner, who lived on the Pescepunk Neck, at Mattituck, and afterwards became the second proprietor of Gardiner's Island. Of the Parshalls we have no account. James, who styles himself 'Gient of the Isle of Wight,' with his wife figures conspicuously in the settlement of his father-in-law's estate.

"He owned and occupied large tracts of land at Aquheogue, lived upon the North Road, and left his estate to his sons Israel and David. The name of Parshall is not now, we believe, to be found in Southold, or even in Riverhead Town."⁶

As a curiosity, rather than as possessing any particular genealogical value, I insert the following quaint deed of an Indian girl:

"Know all men by these presents that I James Paresall belonging to Southold in ye County of Suffolk on ye Island of Nassaw yeoman have sold and delivered unto John Parker of Southampton fuller an Indian Garle aged about eight years daughter of one Porcas an Indian woman, which said Sarah was my slave for her life time; and I doe by these presents sell her ye sd Sarah unto him the said John Parker during her naturall life, to be unto him ye said Parker his heires and assigns as his or their proper estate; and I doe bind myself my heirs, executors and administrators to make good ye sale of ye above Indian garle to him ye said Parker his heirs and assigns; and I doe acknowledge to have received of him ye said Parker for and in consideration of said Indian garle as full satisfaction, the full and just sum of sixteen pounds current money of the province.

The place of burial of James is unknown, though doubtless it is some ancient cemetery in or near Southold. No stone marks his final resting place. The place of his sepulcher is as problematical as that of Moses. The cemetery at Mattituck, where his sons Israel and David lie buried was not opened until 1715, some fourteen years after the death of James, hence it is not probable that he rests there. The following from an unpublished manuscript by the Rev. Mr. Craven, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Mattituck, though relating only to the cemetery at that place will be of interest in this connection :

Mattituck Burying Ground.

In 1809, the Burying Ground was already nearly one hundred years old, and many were its occupants. Some were probably buried here in 1715, the very year it was given to the parish. No stone in it bears an older date than 1723, but this is not strange, for all the stones had to be brought from a distance, most of them from England, at considerable expense. Those strange, little blue slate gravestones of the last century cost more comparatively than fine marble monuments to-day. Not one half the graves, perhaps not one third, are marked. There are thirty-five stones placed earlier than 1750. There are twenty-five that mark the graves of men and women whose lives dated into the 17th century. It is not improbable that men and women born before Southold Town was settled in 1640, lie in unmarked graves in Mattituck churchyard."

It should be a matter of keen regret that the first ancestor of our family in America lies in a forgotten grave.

Connected by ties of consanguinity and marriage with many of its oldest and best families; possessed of abundant means; a gentleman in the sense in which the word was then understood, Israel Parshall was one of the most prominent men of his day in Southold. To the very considerable landed estate which he had received from his father, he added from time to time until he became, probably, one of the largest landowners in the township. In 1715, he appears as a private in "Ye Suffolk Regt. Anno Don 1715, Henry Smith Col., Joseph Wickham Lieut. (Col.), William Smith Major."‡ Subsequently, in all probability he became Captain of the Southold Company, for toward the latter part of his life he is invariably referred to in contemporary records as "Capt." Israel Parshall. His will, dated 23 June, 1737, proved, 22 May, 1738, mentions his "wife Mary." To his son Israel² is the ancestor who, according to the tradition current among the descendants of his nephew Jonathan, fled from France after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, and this tradition has been embalmed in a so-called history.* Israel was born 1680, and the revocation of the Edict occurred 18 Oct., 1685, or when he was about five years of age. It is as clear and certain as anything within the range of human knowledge that Israel Parshall was born, lived and died on Long Island.

The existing records of Israel Parshall are of the most meager description. It is clear, however, that he remained for about twenty years after his marriage a resident of the town of Southold. On 6 Apl., 1749, he sold to Jonathan Youngs, for a consideration of £400, "a certain parcel of land situate in the first division of Aquebogue lands, at the place called Long Swamp, bounded N. by the Sound, S. by the Kings highway called the North Rhoad, E. by Christopher Youngs, and W. by Christopher Youngs, Jun."^{*} This being probably all the realty then held by him, and after the death of his son, 18 Dec., 1751,[†] he probably removed to Orange Co., N. Y., where many of his neighbors, friends and relatives had preceded him. He may have been the Israel Parshall, who, 14 Feby., 1756, witnessed the will of Samuel Gale, of Goshen,[‡] and he probably was the one who at the Census of Slaves, 1755, was returned under "The Number of all the Negro that's belonging Vnder Captain John Wessnor, or floriday"[§] as the owner of one male negro slave. This would seem to indicate that he was then a resident of the Precinct of Florida, in that County. He probably d. or removed from the county before the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, as his name does not appear in any of the records of that period. No will, purporting to be his, has been discovered, so that there exists no positive evidence as to his children. The names, however, of James and Israel, were hereditary in his line and the impossibility of their being sons of any one else makes it altogether probable that they were his. A record in possession of the Regt. Orange Co. Militia,^{} He was a resident of Orange Co., N. Y., at the breaking out of the war and signed the Association to support Congress.^{††} He afterwards removed to Cherry Valley, Otsego Co., N. Y., where he made his home and died there in the early part of the 19th Century. Whether he married and left issue, I have no means of knowing; I have been unable to gain the slightest information regarding him beyond that disclosed by the Revolutionary records.

descendants of Israel¹ states that he (Israel¹) "had brothers James, Phineas, Benjamin and Jesse."* It seems to me that the evidence on this point, though slight, is not the less conclusive. The evidence, however, as to the daughters is less strong. The record referred to above states that "he (Israel¹) had a sister Delilah." As to the others, their ages, approximated from the dates of their marriage makes it impossible that they could have been daughters of David.² David³ or Jonathan.³ There appears to be little room for doubt on the subject.

a. The Will of David³ bears date 11 Mch., 1759; proved 28 Feby., 1760. He must have d. between these dates. Probably about Jan., 1760. All his children are mentioned by name in the Will, except George, who had died some years previously. It will be noted that the line of descent from James¹ through David² and David³ is proven by Wills and other documents of unimpeachable authenticity.

To fix, even approximately, the date of David's birth, is a matter of considerable difficulty. From the circumstance that his father, David,² speaks in his will of his youngest son, Jonathan, being "under age," we are led to infer that at the time the will was drawn (Jany., 1726) David was of age, or very nearly so, which would make the date of his birth not later than 1705. But he married Dec., 1736, at which time he would necessarily have been 31 years of age, which, for the time, seems almost incredible. Marriages then were usually contracted very early in life, men marrying at from eighteen to twenty-two years of age. Moreover his wife was born in 1716, and such a discrepancy was also unusual. On the whole, however, the former date seems to me the more probable.

His will,† dated 11 Mch., 1759, proved 28 Feby., 1760, mentions all his children by name. I insert an epitome of the will in this place:

* Corwin Gen. 160

† Will of David Parshall, N. Y. Wills, Lib. 22, p. 150 (old p. 135).

I, David Parshall, of the town of Southold, . . . Yeoman . . . to my oldest son David Parshall all land Northward of the New Road & Meadow at Sawmill Brook—To my second son Elias Parshall all my lands which lyeth between the North Rode & the South Rode where I now live, with all the buildings upon the same & also all that West Meadow—upon the North side of Peconek River (allows his wife the improvements of it until he shall come of age)—To 3d son James Parshall land Southward of the South Rode and the Meadow adjoining to the said land & all the buildings which stand upon it. Land bounded upon the East by the lands of Nathan Perry; South by Samuel Wells, West by Isaiah Tuthill & North by Kings Rode allowing his mother my now wife the improvement until he come of age. To youngest son John Parshall £100, when he shall come of age. To my daughter Desire Downes £5. To my daughter Sebil Parshall £30, to my dau. Mchitabel £30 when eighteen or day of marriage. To my wife Sebil Parshall—?

His widow, Sibyl, subsequently m. ———— Havens, and after his death made her home with her son Elias, at Patchogue, N. Y., where she d. at the extreme age of 96 years.

It appears that Jonathan left Long Island and went to Orange County, N. Y., where, in 1737, he purchased an estate of 607 acres of land in the Township of New Windsor. Returning to Long Island in 1739, he married and returned with his wife to his estate. Here she died and he deeded his estate to his sons, Jonathan and David, and went to Pittsburg, Pa., where he died.^{3b}

His homestead was located in that part of the town known as "Little Britain," which was large and of indefinite extent, reaching one way from the Village of New Windsor to the town line of Montgomery, and in the other from Washingtonville to south line of Newburgh and Montgomery.† He lived on the old public highway leading from Neelytown to New Windsor, which ran centrally through the whole town‡

As an illustration of the loose manner in which much so-called history is written, I quote the following:

a. Dr. Charles Parshall was born probably in Orange County, N. Y., and is said to have located in Harrisburg, Pa. I have been unable to find any other trace of him. Caleb and Thomas Parshall were living in Pennsylvania and were taxpayers there. Thomas in Turbett Tp., Northumberland Co.§ and Caleb in Derry Tp., Cumberland Co., from 1778 to 1786.

b. Jonathan Parshall was living in Derry Tp., Cumberland Co., Pa., 1779-1782.†† On 12 Nov., 1770, he also "obtained a warrant for a survey of 110 acres, 153 perches" of land in Cumberland Co., Pa.‡‡ In all human probability this was Jonathan.§ Whether or not he finally went to Pittsburg, there is no authority beyond Ruttenber and Clark History cited. It would appear from this that his wife must have died and he have left Orange Co., N. Y., prior to 1770.

"Parshall was one of the oldest families in New Windsor."

"Israel Parshall, the ancestor in Orange Co., was driven from France with the Huguenots after the Edict of Nantes, located on the east end of Long Island at Black River where he lived and died. Jonathan, his son, bought 607 acres of land belonging to the Markham tract, in 1737, occupied it for a while but after death of his wife went to Pittsburgh, Pa., where he died. He deeded his New Windsor estate to his 2 sons, Jonathan & David, both of whom passed their lives on the property. Jonathan married Jenima Terry & had 4 sons & a dau. of whom Moses was the third child. He also lived and died on the old homestead."*

The revocation of the Edict of Nantes occurred 18 Oct., 1685, at which time Israel² was about five years of age. That he was born, lived and died in this country is beyond a doubt. He is named in his father's Will[†] and his father was here several years certainly before the revocation of the Edict. Moreover, James Parshall was not a Frenchman nor a Huguenot. In all probability Israel³ lived at some time in Orange Co., and left descendants there. This history being written a century or more later, the two families were confounded. That Jonathan³ was the son of David² is proven by the Will of the latter,[‡] in which he is distinctly named. The tradition of Huguenot ancestry has always prevailed in this branch of the family and in this one only. I can only account for it on the theory that they intermarried with some of the Huguenot families, who had settled in this country. The Terrys, I believe, were of French and probably Huguenot descent, and the wife of Jonathan,⁴ according to this history, was a Terry, though another authority states that she was a Knapp.

The records of James are of the most meager description. It is certain, however, that he had removed to Orange Co., N. Y., prior to the breaking out of the Revolutionary War. He signed the Association to support the Continental Congress, at Goshen Precinct, Orange Co., N. Y., 21 June, 1775.* He also appears to have been elected Ensign of the Chester Company, of the West Orange Regt.† He also appears as "one of the scouts, who served Apl., 5-6, being two days in conveying certain tory prisoners from Warwick Mountain to Kings Town" (probably Kingston).‡ That he served through the Revolution is certain, but as there was another James Parshall (b. 1762), who served in the latter part of the War, it is not always possible to determine from the official records one from the other. It is believed that he removed after the close of the War to Western New York, and located in or near Palmyra, Wayne Co., but as the other James Parshall above referred to, located in the same place the difficulty of distinguishing them is increased. With him, came to Western New York, a sister, who had previously married ————Terry, and whose daughter, Deliverance, subsequently became the wife of his brother Israel's son Israel. A very old lady, Mrs. Zubby Griswold, a granddaughter of his brother Israel, made a statement in 1870, which was reduced to writing and is preserved in the records of this branch of the family,* as follows:

‡ Id. 11. 77.

"Israel Parshall had three brothers, Jesse, of Orange Co., James, who died in the Lake Country and Benjamin who died young. I saw only James. There was also one sister Delilah."

There is no direct evidence that Samuel was the son of James, but the question does not seem to admit of much doubt. None of the other sons of Israel³ were old enough to have had a son in 1757, except Israel, and we have the complete list of his children from records of undoubted authenticity. He was certainly not a son of David,³ for David mentions all his sons by name in his Will. He was not the son of Jonathan,³ for Jonathan was living in Orange Co., in 1757, and it is certain that Samuel was born on Long Island and probably grew to manhood there. Moreover, we have a pretty accurate list of Jonathan's sons from family and other authentic records. I have in my possession a copy of a letter written by James Parshall [306], great grandson of Samuel⁵, to Asa Parshall [150], a grandson of Israel,⁴ dated Titusville, Pa., 3 Nov. 1877, in which the writer says: "I have heard my mother mention the names of friends the same as you mention—Asa, Israel, Jesse, and others; also of relatives at Canandaigua Springs, N. Y." The evidence, though circumstantial, seems to be nearly conclusive. Samuel must have been either a son or brother of James⁴ and that he was the latter is in the last degree improbable.

Israel Parshall was born on Long Island, subsequently removed to Orange Co., N. Y., where his eldest child, a daughter was born in 1754. He afterward, but at what time is uncertain, removed to Pennsylvania, where he is found with his two eldest sons, at the breaking out of the Revolutionary War. He was a Second Lieutenant, 3d Co., 2nd Battalion, Northumberland Co. (Pa.) Associators, Col. James Potter, 24 Jany., 1776.* It appears from Tax List and other documentary records that he was a resident of Muncy Twp., Northumberland Co. (Pa.), 1783-1787. It is probable that he was then engaged in farming, as he is found assessed for 600 acres of land, with live stock, &c. He also appears to have owned a saw mill and various other property, both real and personal.†

He was among the earliest settlers of the town of Chemung, Chemung Co., N. Y., coming there from Pennsylvania, about 1789. At the treaty with the Indians held at Newtown (now Elmira) in 1790, he was present with his son Asa. A year later he received a deed (dated 22 Jany., 1791, signed by Gov. Clinton) for Lot No. 10, in said town. This lot was situate on Chemung River about 10 miles below the present City of Elmira; here he cleared a farm and spent the remainder of his life.‡ His death was the result of an accident. He started alone to ride a colt to a sugar camp on a winter day. The colt returned alone. Search being immediately instituted, he was found lying by the roadside insensible, and succumbed to the shock and exposure shortly after. It was conjectured that he was thrown from his

of the Revolutionary War. It appears from the Census of 1776,* that he was then a resident of Southold Tp., and it is probable that he was during the War. In 1779, he was obliged, with others, to flee from the Island to escape the persecution of the British force, as appears from the following :

"At a meeting of the Governor and Council of Safety at Windham the 21st of September 1779

Present

His Excellency the Governor
Honble Matthew Griswold

Elipht Dyer

"On motion of Elias Parshall, of Shold on Long Island, representing that he is a friend to the United States, that he had lately built on said island a small vessel of about 20 tons, for trade; that by means of the threats and usage from the enemy, within whose power the inhabitants of said island are, he dared not remain longer on said island, and has therefore brought over part of his family and effects on board of said vessel to this State, which are now in the river at East Haddam, and moving for liberty of landing and safe protection for said effects for his own benefit; and further shewing that Matw Welles of said South Hold, a friend to the States, has also come over from said island in said vessel, with his family and effects, for the same occasion and for safety: Resolved, that the said Parshall be permitted to land his said goods and effects within this State, and that they shall and may remain safe & free from any arrests, in his own care, unless and until other order shall be given concerning them; provided that said effects and goods be under the inspection of Colo. Jabez Chapman, who is to examine and see that no articles are introduced from the enemy and contrary to law, and to make report to his Excellency the Governor in the premises. And the said Parshall is also permitted to bring over the rest of his family, and to be reported accordingly."

Subsequently he removed to Patchogue, where he had a ship yard. He also was the owner and captain of a merchant vessel with which he made regular trips between New York and the West Indies. This vessel he commanded in person until after the marriage of his daughter Charity to Capt. Brown, when he retired from active command and was succeeded by his son-in-law. On one occasion his vessel was attacked by pirates, whom he defeated after a vigorous resistance. A set of silver buttons

James Parshall was a soldier of the Revolution. "He is recorded as a sergeant in the company commanded by Capt. Samuel Sackett, belonging to the Fourth Regiment of the New York line or Continentals, which regiment was under the command of Col. Henry B. Livingston, also that in the said record the said James Parshall is recorded as having enlisted June 1, 1777, for the war; also that the regiment was employed in active service in the Revolutionary War."[†] He served until 2 Dec., 1779, when he was granted a furlough, and went to Saybrook, Ct., where his family then was. While there he joined an expedition "for the purpose of detecting and suppressing a plundering party." He was captured in Gardiner's Bay by a British sloop of war and carried prisoner to New York where he was confined on the prison ship Scorpion until the following June. He underwent such hardships while in confinement that he was unable to rejoin his regiment."[‡] Many interesting anecdotes of James have been related to me by my uncle, the late John A. Parshall, of Delhi, Delaware Co., N. Y., a grandson of James, who had often listened to his grandfather's relation of his adventures in the Revolution. James was a re-markedly fine penman and was often called upon to act as a sort of drum-head secretary to Gen. Washington. He was one of the guards over the unfortunate Major Andre before his execution. He accompanied Gen. Sullivan on his Indian Campaign and helped to build the dam at the foot of Otsego Lake. He was at Saratoga when Burgoyne surrendered and at the Battle of Monmouth, where, he says, many of the soldiers actually died of thirst, it being a very hot day. He was at Valley Forge, and endured all the hardships of that memorable winter. He was a man of herculean strength and was wont to boast with pardonable pride that in the Army, where wrestling was the principal amusement of the soldiers, he never found but one man who could throw him. After the death of his first wife, he removed to Cherry Valley and shortly after to Middlefield Center, where he cleared a farm, returned to Long Island on horseback and brought back his children and his second wife in the same fashion. The first house in which he lived in Middlefield Center was a log cabin, which was standing a few years ago, and, I presume, is yet.

John Parshall was a soldier of the Revolution.[‡] He enlisted in the Spring of 1876 in the Suffolk County Company, commanded by Capt. Reeve, and served about five months; re-enlisted in the company commanded by Capt. Conklin, and served as a carpenter at Newburg, Orange County, N. Y., for one year. On the 5th of May, 1778, he enlisted at Newburg in the company of Capt. Walker, under whom he served for about nine months. It was during this time that he took part in the Battle of Monmouth. In 1779 he was attached to the Newburg company, and was called on to render short tours of duty, as occasion demanded. In the Spring of 1780 he again enlisted as a volunteer in the company of Capt. Drake of Newburg and served about three months, participating in a battle with the Indians, near Fort Plain, N. Y. He also appears to have served for a short time in a Connecticut regiment. On October 16th, 1832, he applied for a pension which was granted for actual service in the Revolutionary War. He seems to have remained in Newburg after the War until about 1803, when he removed to Middlefield, Otsego County, N. Y. Here he purchased a tract of wild land of 175 acres which had upon it a small log cabin in which he lived for some years. By tireless industry on the part of himself and his family, the heavy forests were cleared away; good substantial buildings were erected and at the time of his death he had acquired considerable property. The house and some other out-buildings were burned some years ago, but the barns are still standing.

Samuel appears to have removed with his putative father to Orange County, N. Y., prior to the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, for it is a matter of record that he was living, with his father, in Goshen Precinct, in that county in 1775, when he was a private in Capt. Phenihaz Rumsey's company, and signed the Association to support Congress.* On the 19th of September, 1775, he and others, then members of a Goshen company, signed a petition to revoke the commissions of the Captain and Lieutenant of the company to which they then belonged, on the ground, as stated, that their election had been procured by fraud and deceit.† Later he appears as a private in Capt. Marvin's company in Col. Drake's regiment, and the muster roll of this company, still extant, dated 26th of November, 1776, shows that on the 27th of August, preceding, he was reported absent from his company.‡ though the reason therefor is not stated. This muster roll is the last record in which the name of Samuel appears, and it is not to be found in the records of any State so far as I have been able to discover. That he was employed in a powder mill, in Maryland, during the greater part of the War, is absolutely certain. His granddaughter, Mrs. Lucinda Rose, when a girl, lived in the family of her grandparents and has frequently listened to thrilling tales of his experience in the mill, as related by her grandmother after the death of Samuel himself. It was during the War, probably about 1778, that he married his first wife. She died after the birth of her second child, probably about 1782, or 1783, and on Samuel's return home, immediately after the close of the War, he married in Brooklyn, about 1786, his second wife, Ruth Stratton. He remained in Brooklyn, in all probability, for a number of years, for several of his children were born there. From Brooklyn he returned to Orange County, thence to Beaver, Pa., then to Springfield, O., and finally located in Ellsworth Tp., Mahoning County, O. Here in the primeval solitude he cleared a farm, erected buildings, including a substantial house, and brought up his large family of children. He died about 1827; his wife about 1848.

Israel probably removed with his parents from Orange County, N. Y., to Northumberland County, Pa., shortly before the breaking out of the Revolutionary War and resided there until about 1790, when he removed to New York State. He served as a soldier in the Revolution and appears, 13th of March, 1776, as an ensign in the 7th Battalion, Northumberland County Associators, Col. James Potter.* We also find that "Israel Parshall made an application for pension on January 14th, 1833, at which time he was 73 years of age, and resided at Palmyra, N. Y. In his application he alleged that he first enlisted at Loyal Lock, Penna., and served as a private, corporal and sergeant in companies commanded by Captains Newman, Hammond, Hepburn and Westfall, and in regiments commanded by Colonels Martin and Hartley. Length of service not stated. There is an affidavit on file in his claim showing that a brother, David Parshall, served with him."† He appears on the Tax Lists as a resident of Muncy Tp., Northumberland County, Pa., from 1783 to 1787.‡ It is inferred that at this time he was married, from the fact that his brother David is uniformly referred to in contemporaneous records as a "single man." It was probably about 1790 when he finally removed to Palmyra, N. Y., locating there on a farm given to him by his father-in-law. The mother of Deliverance Terry (wife of Israel) is said to have been a sister of Israel.⁴ There is a tradition in the family that Deliverance was born in an Indian wigwam during the progress of a fierce battle between the whites and Indians. An Indian woman cared for her and her mother, and protected them from the rage of the redskins. "Delivered" her in fact from the awful peril in which she stood, and hence the name conferred upon her. Israel finally removed to Michigan with several of his children and died there at the advanced age of about eighty years.

‡ State of New Jersey, Office of Adjutant General, Trenton, April 13, 1901. It is certified, that the records of this office show that Israel Parshall served as a Private, Minute Man, in the Gloucester County New Jersey Militia, during the Revolutionary War, Alexander C. Oliphant, Adjutant General. [Seal.]

York City, at the disbanding of Washington's Army. No records show the regiment in which he served or length of service. Nothing, in fact, beyond the mere mention of his name. It is probable, however, that he served in the latter part of the War.

Receiving a common school education and learning the shoe-makers' trade, he started in business for himself in New York City. Meeting with reverses in his business, he went to Charleston, S. C., hoping to improve his affairs. Here he opened a shop and store and was successful from the start. His wife and sons were preparing to follow him thither, when he died suddenly of a fever. His letters to his wife are filled with expressions of affection, for mother, wife and children. He was a man of irreproachable character, of high ideals, and noble purposes. He enlisted in a N. Y. Regt. in the War of 1812, but was not called into actual service.

Elias Parshall was born in the same house as his father. He removed from Long Island to Morris Co., N. J., and subsequently to Fayette Co., Pa., where he spent the remainder of his life and where many of his descendants still reside. He engaged in milling and flat boating to New Orleans, returning by way of New York. For several years he kept a hotel in Masontown, Pa., and carried on a shoe factory, bringing his leather across the mountains from Maryland and Virginia in a wagon. A man of rare talent for business and affairs, he laid the foundation of the fortune which his descendants have ever since enjoyed. (See portrait.)

‡ Will of Elias Parshall, p. 40.

The following is an account of the manner in which Lewis Parshall and his brother Daniel met their death:

"MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE.—Rarely, indeed, has it been our painful duty to record a more melancholy occurrence than one which recently took place in that part of Brooklin called Fire Place. On the evening of Friday, the 5th instant, eleven men, belonging to that village, went to the South Shore with a seine for fishing, viz: William Rose, Isaac Woodruff, Lewis Parshall, Benjamin Brown, Nehemiah Hand, James Horner, Charles Ellison, James Prior, Daniel Parshall, Harry Horner and John Hulse. On Saturday morn'g the affecting discovery was made that they were all drowned. It is supposed the whole party embarked in one boat, and went out to the outer bar, a distance of two miles from the shore, and which at low water is in some places bare, but that by some accident the boat was stove or sunk, and the whole party left to perish by the rising of the tide, which, at high water, is eight or ten feet on the bar. The boat came on shore in pieces, and also eight bodies. The six first named have left families. Long will a whole neighborhood lament this overwhelming affliction, and the tears of the widow and orphan flow for their husband, father and friend."*

a. Abel Clark was b. 24 Nov., 1765, s. Jared b. 1729, s. Nathaniel b. 1693, s. Daniel b. 1654, s. Hon. Daniel Clark, of Windsor, Conn. b. 1622; d. 1712. He was a tanner, currier and shoe maker by trade. Soon after attaining his majority and a little capital he removed from Connecticut to Cooperstown, bought a piece of land in Pierstown and built a tannery, shop and log house, then returning to Connecticut, he married his wife and started for Cooperstown the next day on horseback, with his wife and all his household effects on a pannier behind. Speedy was the first child, born in the log cabin which is still standing. The other children were Sherman, b. 10 Nov., 1792; d. 30 Mch., 1857; m. — Sept., 1825, Eliza Peck, of Conn.; Daniel Abel b. 21 Jany., 1794; d. 21 Feby., 1815; Erastus b. 2 Mch., 1795; d. 20 Oct., 1828, unm.; Eliza b. 22 Aug., 1797; d. 10 Dec., 1870; m. — Mch., 1828, Richard White; Betsey b. 18 Aug., 1802; d. 10 Jany., 1819; Huldah b. 20 Sept., 1804; d. 26 Mch., 1853; m. 28 Feby., 1822, Ira A. a. Capt. Leroy S. Hewitt was a type of the Christian gentleman. At his Country's call he went to the front and laid down his life upon the altar of his Country. He seems to have had a premonition of his fate for when leaving home he sang:

"Earthly home, ado, ado. Earthly friends, farewell to you."

They proved to be his last words to his family, for with the closing line:

"Friends and loved ones, weep no more; meet me on the other shore,"

He left them. They never saw him again.

David Parshall removed about 1830 to Danby, N. Y., but soon returned to Middlefield. A few years later, however, he returned with his family and settled upon the farm now owned by his son, Gilbert. The country at this time was a primeval wilderness; neighbors were few and far between. The comforts, and even the necessities of life, were only to be had at great expense and by hard labor. For some time after his arrival at Danby the family lived in a log cabin, which was destroyed by fire some years ago. With infinite labor he cleared his farm, brought up his family and lived to see the wilderness transformed into a garden; to see the drudgery of farming become a pleasure by the invention of labor-saving machinery; the mowing machine, the reaper and binder take the place of the scythe and cradle. A kind and affectionate husband and an indulgent father, he did not allow his life to be all work, but was ever ready for a frolic with his children. His wife was a woman of saintly disposition who won the love and esteem of all whose privilege it was to know her.

Israel Parshall removed to Michigan, from Chemung, about 1836. Here, in Oceola Township, Livingston County, he cleared one of the finest farms in the State. From Oceola he removed to Parshallville, about 200 miles distant and opened a grist mill and store. In 1855 he finally settled in Chesaning Township, Saginaw County, Michigan, where he built and operated another

Asa Parshall is a successful farmer at Chemung, N. Y., where he lives, upon the farm which his grandfather, Israel Parshall, purchased more than a century ago. Of a genial and kindly nature, "Uncle Asa" is beloved by all who know him. Well-to-do in this world's goods, his heart and purse are ever open to the wants of his less fortunate fellows. A firm and steadfast friend of this work, he has aided the author on several occasions when aid was necessary. The family owe "Uncle Asa" a debt

George H. Parshall received a common school education, after which he was put to learn the trade of a shoemaker. After finishing his apprenticeship he opened a shop and store of his own. He subsequently removed to Jamaica, L. I., and followed the business until his death as a successful merchant. The traits of honesty and integrity which had characterized his father were inherited by the son, and won for him the respect and esteem of the community in which he lived.

He received a common school education and learned the trade of a japanner of wood and metal. Starting in business for himself after completing his apprenticeship he conducted it so successfully that at 40 years of age he was able to retire with a handsome fortune. Thenceforth he devoted himself to the buying and selling of real estate, at Morrissania, N. Y., until his death. Intelligent, earnest and successful, when in active business life he was one of the most prominent men in Westchester County.

Rev. Revilo F. Parshall was the youngest of a family of eleven children, and the ministry was his chosen profession from early youth. He received a common school education and at nineteen years of age entered the Theological Department of Madison University. Finishing the theological course in two years, he was ordained at Westford, Otsego Co., N. Y., shortly after attaining his majority. His first charge was the Westford Baptist church, where he remained three years. The next seven years were spent as pastor of the Sloansville (N. Y.) Baptist church, and the succeeding five years in the Fort Edward (N. Y.) church. Going thence to Wisconsin, he founded the Afton Baptist church and subsequently held charges in West Salem, Sparta, Tomah and New Lisbon, in Wisconsin, and in Carrollton, Ill. Receiving a call to the Oakland (Cal.) Baptist church, he went thither and subsequently filled pulpits at Sacramento, Healdsburg and Valejo, in that State. In 1887, he narrowly escaped death in an accident on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, one of his limbs being so badly crushed that amputation became necessary. This terminated his active ministerial career and thenceforth until his death he made his home in Chicago. His career was a remarkable one. He combined shrewd business tact with earnest enthusiasm in the cause of religion. More than 6,000 persons are said to owe their conversion to his efforts. More than two score ministers owed their first start in the profession to his helpful offices. As an exhorter he was earnest and forceful, imparting some of his own enthusiasm to all who heard him. In the course of his long life, he served the people of Delhi as President of the Village, Trustee, Clerk of the Board of Trustees, Fire Commissioner and in fact in every office within the gift of his fellow townsmen. It is said that he occupied the same case, in the same office, at the same window for more than fifty years, and that he "set" birth, death and marriage notices for three generations of his neighbors. † Pers. statement.

Mr. Parrshall

William Parshall left home when a boy of fourteen to seek his fortune. Going to Rochester, N. Y., he spent the years 1838 and 1839, working in a dry goods store. At the end of that time he returned to Cooperstown, where he was employed in a hardware store. In 1848, he came to Syracuse, and on April 5th of that year, entered the employ of Norton, Hall & Co., the largest hardware dealers in that part of the State. Two years later, in 1850, he bought out the interest of Mr. Hall, and the firm subsequently became Norton, Bradley & Co., Bradley, Parshall & Co., and Parshall & Searl. In all these firms Mr. Parshall was the practical hardware man of the concern and was noted as a shrewd and careful buyer and conservative business man. In 1890, having accumulated a fortune, he retired from business. Close and economical in business matters, in his family he was liberal to a fault, and no wish of his children was ever too extravagant for him to gratify. Though not a member of the church, he was always interested in its welfare and contributed liberally to religious work. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Park Central Presbyterian church of Syracuse for more than forty years, and was Chairman of the Board for nearly that length of time. A business man of the "old school," his word was always better than another man's bond. Honest and upright himself, he ever sought to instill sentiments of honor and honesty into his children, his servants and his clerks. Few men have left behind them such a reputation for integrity as he. Honored and respected in the community where he lived, loved by his family, as few fathers are, he met death with the serene fortitude with which he had met every crisis of his life. Received a common school education. Left home when sixteen years of age and learned the trade of a wagonmaker, which he followed for ten years. When twenty-six years of age he bought a farm and followed the calling of a farmer until 1895. He was one of the largest hop growers in the State, as high as 20,000 pounds having been raised by him in a single year. In 1898, was elected Supervisor of the Town of Middlefield, and re-elected for several terms. Was president of the Otsego County Agricultural Society in 1899. (See portrait.)

^a Karl Alfred Parshall was a graduate of the Cooperstown High School and of the Albany Medical College and a licensed practitioner. He was formerly a member of the staff of the Saratoga (N. Y.) hospital, and is now in general practice in New York City.

Gilbert removed to Danby with his parents when a mere child. He still owns and cultivates the farm which his father cleared at that time. "He is a lively little man, full of stories." He is an advanced farmer, believing fully in the truth of the old maxim, that "What is worth doing at all is worth doing well." His farm is said to present the best appearance of any in his township. Possessing the racial characteristics of diminutive stature, in his youth he was of Herculean strength. Small, wiry, strong, of rugged constitution, he might well stand as a type of our family.

railway generators, three-phase generators, rotary converters, railway motors and the electrical equipment of motor cars and locomotives. Since the year 1895 he has been in practice as a Consulting Engineer in Great Britain, and has carried out many important installations, amongst these being, The Dublin United Tramways, Bristol Tramways, London United Tramways, Glasgow Corporation Tramways, Isle of Thanet Tramways, and is the originator of the system used on the Central London Railway, to which Company he is permanent Consulting Engineer. Mr. Parshall has also visited upper Egypt to report upon a Power Transmission Scheme. He was for some time lecturer on dynamo design at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is joint author with Mr. H. M. Hobart of a treatise on Armature Windings and a book on the Design of Electrical Generators, which were well received by the technical press, and which have a large sale both in Great Britain and America. Mr. Parshall is also the author of a number of technical papers relating to the design of electric tramways and railway installations and apparatus, and in 1896 gained the Crompton Prize awarded by the Institution of Civil Engineers for a paper read before that Institution entitled "Magnetic Data of Iron and Steel," and in 1898 gained a premium awarded by the Institution of Electrical Engineers for a paper entitled "Earth Return for Electric Tramways." J. W. Kimball

DeWitt Parshall received his education at the Canandaigua Academy, where he was for several terms a classmate and roommate of Stephen A. Douglass. Choosing the law as a profession, he entered the office of the late Gen. William H. Adams, at Lyons, where he industriously prosecuted his studies and was admitted to the bar in 1838, having, since leaving his father's house, entirely supported himself by his own exertion—teaching, surveying, copying law papers in the County Clerk's Office, etc. He opened his first law office at Lyons, but in 1839, having formed a co-partnership with the late Judge Theron R. Strong, he moved to Palmyra, but feeling that there was a better field for his activities at the County seat, the partnership was dissolved at his own request and he returned to Lyons, where he continued to reside for the remainder of his life. In addition to his law practice he became extensively engaged in real estate transactions and continued until his death the most extensive dealer in and owner of real estate in the county. The Village of Lyons owes much of its prosperity to his enterprise and public spirit. In 1852, he established the Palmyra Bank, of Lyons, the name of which was changed to the Lyons Bank two years later and again in 1865, it was converted into the Lyons National Bank, under which name it has ever since enjoyed an unexampled prosperity. He served as Supervisor of his town several terms, and later was President of the Village of Lyons. In 1868, he was elected to the Legislature of New York State, where he served one term. A man of sterling worth, upright and honorable in every walk of life, devoted to his family and friends, he won the esteem of all who knew him. (See portrait.)

Caleb Parshall resided on the farm formerly belonging to his father for many years. On the construction of the Walkill Valley Railroad, he was one of the Commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the damages for lands taken by that corporation for railroad purposes. In Sept., 1869, he removed to Port Jervis, N. Y., and engaged in the construction of the Port Jervis, Monticello and New York Railroad, after the completion of which he retired from active life, but continued to make his home in Port Jervis until his death.

a. Frederick Ransom Parshall, while yet a boy, developed an interest in the organ that never flagged to the close of his brief life. After six lessons from a local teacher, he assumed the organ bench. In the fall of 1890, he went to Brooklyn and studied under the famous Dr. Dudley Buck, with whom he made rapid progress. He served as organist in St. John's and St. Mathew's churches, of Brooklyn; Christ church, in Elizabeth, N. J., and Zion and St. Timothy's churches of Manhattan Borough. As an organist, he was singularly clever in manipulation of registers, in accuracy, and in clearness of phrasing. The works of Bach, Widoz and Merkel, and the host of other organ classics were to him open and familiar; the fugue and the sonata were his daily exercises. Cut down in almost the beginning of his career, his life was of singular purity and devotion to his profession.

b. Almon Howard Parshall, m. Covington, Ky., 24 Nov., 1886, Ann Elizabeth, da. Jeremiah and Myra (Alderly) Holloway (b. Irondale, O., 1 Jan., 1868) Ch., 1191, i. Howard Percival⁹; 1192, ii. Agnes Myra⁹; 1193, iii. Edna Adderly⁹. Received a common school education, supplemented by a two years' course in the Queen City Commercial College. Learned watch case engraving and subsequently carriage making. Is now superintendent of a large carriage factory at Elkhart, Ind.

* Pers. statement.

Michigan Cavalry, Gen. Kilpatrick learning of his ability and desperate courage detailed him as a scout. While on this duty he was captured within the rebel line, near Richards Ferry, Va., wearing a Confederate uniform and was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged as a spy, on the 27th day of April, 1864. On that day the death warrant was read to him in his cell and he was carried to the place of execution, but by the timely interference of Gen. Kilpatrick his life was saved. He was sent to Libby Prison and from thence to Pemberton Prison, from which place he finally succeeded in making his escape after suffering all the miseries and horrors of a rebel hell. After returning to his command he was sent West to fight Indians. Was recommended to Gen. Sheridan as a scout and served under him in that capacity for nearly a year. He was discharged at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on the expiration of his term of enlistment, 15 July, 1865, and returned to Michigan, where he has since resided.

"INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 17.—John Parshall, an ex-soldier, died very suddenly to-day of heart failure.

"Parshall was one of the six men intrusted with the final disposition of the body of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Lincoln, all of whom registered an oath never to reveal Booth's last resting place.

"Five of these soldiers are now dead and the secret so far has been religiously kept.

William G. Parshall was a citizen well known in legal and political circles in Fayette County. He graduated at Jefferson College, and afterward studied law, being admitted to the bar in 1844. While practicing law he also engaged in agricultural pursuits, to which he was ever strongly attracted. He was a delegate to several State Conventions and his voice was often heard there. He was a man of great vigor, both of mind and body, and was well read in various lines of thought. Having acquired a competency he was preparing to retire from active life when stricken by death. James Clark Parshall, the author of this work, was educated in several of the public and private schools of Syracuse, graduating from the Syracuse Classical School and Syracuse High School. Entered into business with his father, but becoming dissatisfied with a mercantile life, withdrew after three years and commenced the study of law. Admitted to the bar at Rochester, N. Y., 6 Oct., 1882, he practiced successfully at Syracuse until 1885, when owing to ill health he retired from active practice. Was a resident of Middletown, N. Y., from 1891 to 1897, where he engaged in newspaper work. Returned to Syracuse, 1897, where he has since resided. Is much interested in genealogical studies and is the author of several works on the subject. Is a member of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. (See frontispiece.)

Charles Henry Parshall is the inventor and patentee of many ingenious contrivances, among the more important of which may be mentioned an atmospheric Ice machine, which produces a temperature of 256° below zero, Fahrenheit, by the compression and expansion of air. This invention was the result of more than six years' continuous labor. It is now in use on all U. S. Battleships and Cruisers for cooling the powder magazines and for other purposes. Mr. Parshall is also the inventor of the Sight Feed Lubricator, a contrivance in use in every civilized country on the globe and from which he has realized a large fortune. (See portrait.)

Mr. Jonathan K. Parshall, the sole living male representative of this family, writing of his father, says: "My earliest recollection is that my father moved from the State of New York to Western Pennsylvania, and from there to Lockbourne, O., where my mother died. We children were placed in different families. In time my father married again, but the family was never re-united. * * * I remember two of my father's brothers, William, who moved with us, with his family, from Pennsylvania to Lockbourne, which place he left soon after. Then there was Uncle Reuben, whom I only knew by name, and a sister, Hannah, who m. Dennis Larkin, lived in Pennsylvania, and brought up a large family of children, who, in time, came to Indiana and Illinois." I have never been able to gain the slightest clue to the paternity of John Hickey Parshall, nor have I found in any family a "John" unaccounted for, who could by any possibility be the one in question.

John³ says his father (David²) had a brother John, who was a physician in Cincinnati, O., and another brother, William, a lawyer, residence unknown." This would seem to connect the family with the descendants of Elias² of Fayette Co., Pa., but I have very complete records of that family and none is unaccounted for; moreover, all the members of that line to whom I have written on the subject disclaim all knowledge of this Zanesville family.

PETER CROSS² [1309] (James^{1a}) b. Sacketts Harbor,
N. Y., 30 Dec., 1812; d. Penn Yan, Yates Co., N. Y., 17 Sept., 1885; m. Julia Loverna Hill.

a. James Parshall, the father of Peter, was twice married, and had sixteen children. By one wife he had Stephen, Peter Cross and Elizabeth; by the other William and Sarah. The names of the others are not known. It seems strange that so large a family could leave so little trace of its existence. I have been able to discover only Peter, Cross and William, though relatives of James are said to have lived in Sharpsburg and Pittsburg, Pa., a number of years ago.
